

Short Notes

From Measured Success Inc.

Vol. 2 Issue XII

“Assistant Buyers” Earn Greater Sales and Loyal Customers

Your first question is probably, is this some new technique or gimmick? The answer is an emphatic, no. Techniques and gimmicks are part of the problem not part of a process that leads to increased sales, and long-lasting relationships that bring additional sales plus new sales from referrals. After all, wouldn't you rather talk to a referral than place a cold call any day? You can develop a referral based business and it begins when you make a commitment to stop selling and start helping people to buy.

When you hear the words “sales person” what comes to mind? The car salesperson who asks, “What will it take to sell you a car today?” The real estate agent that tries to convince you that this property is perfect for you even though it doesn't meet your essential criteria. Perhaps you think of the insurance agent that tells you that you can't afford not to buy this insurance if you care about your family, even though they haven't asked you a single question about your perception of the value of this insurance to your family. You know that you do not want to be this “sales” person. You know that while these sales tactics may work, they will never help you to grow a base of loyal customers that come back to you for repeat sales and freely send referrals to you.

Many of you have had extensive “sales” training. The truth is that most of that training was related to product/service knowledge and prepared you to present a scripted presentation intended to have them eating out of your hands. So, how's that working for you? That's what I thought. If that alone worked so well you would have stopped reading long before this point.

So how and why is being an assistant buyer different? The most significant difference is based on the mental mind set that comes from being an “assistant buyer” versus a “sales person”. An “assistant buyer” doesn't sell anyone anything ever! An “assistant buyer” is an expert listener and focuses the conversation on the buyer, on their needs and wants. The “assistant buyer” helps the customer to buy exactly what they want in the exact manner that they have told the “assistant buyer” that they like to buy! That sounds remarkably easy doesn't it? It is, once you've learned how to readjust your thinking and interaction with the customer in a manner that helps them to both like and trust you.

Start developing your assistant buyer skills today. As an assistant buyer you will want to: become a netweaver helping others and making connections, learn that questions are the key to sales, place the needs of others ahead of your own, seek first to understand and then to help, be trustworthy and respected by everyone around you, and realize that you are making lifetime relationships. As you make changes and improvements in your skills you will begin to achieve remarkable sales while building strong relationships that lead to your long-term success with far less work.

=====

Join the free tele-seminar “How to Out Perform & Outlast the Competition” Monday, January 29 at 9:00 am CST. You will learn:

- the success formula and how to make it work for you
- what’s holding you back and how to overcome it
- the true driver for results
- how to increase performance

Don’t miss out! Register by responding to this email with “Tele-seminar” in the subject line and include your name and a phone number in the body of the email to obtain the conference phone number, access code, as well as, accompanying workbook.

=====

Look for Cheryl’s column “Coaching Excellence” in Omaha’s newest paper the “Heartland Messenger”. Any business wanting to receive a copy of this free paper can email hrtlndmessenger@yahoo.com to have an issue delivered each month. January issue (you may want to snag a copy of this issue for your boss’s desk): “Is Toxic Management Syndrome Cutting into Your Profits, Costing You Quality Employees, and Leading to Low Productivity?”

=====

Don’t miss this month’s book review, “Selling to VITO” written by Anthony Parinello (available at www.measuredsuccessinc.com)

=====

If you wish to use the information from this ezine you may do so as long as you give attribution to Cheryl A. Clausen of Measured Success Inc. and include a web link to www.measuredsuccessinc.com

=====

Cheryl Clausen ~ the agent’s business coach ~ call 402-926-1134, email measuredsuccess@frontiernet.net or visit www.measuredsuccessinc.com

=====

If you do not wish to receive future issues please email me with unsubscribe in the subject line.